

Telehealth Services

Quality, Cost-Effective Healthcare – On Your Terms

No one wants to go to work sick, and no business owner wants sick employees spreading germs around the workplace. Still, when employees miss work, there's a real cost to your business, from lost productivity to the extra burden on coworkers who must pick up the slack. How can you help your members get healthy – and back to work?

Medical care via telehealth checks all of the boxes. It's a cost-effective solution for companies and a convenient way for members to access care, when and where they need it.

The Virtual Advantage

Nearly 75% of all doctor, urgent care and ER visits are either unnecessary or could be handled safely and effectively over the phone or computer – at a fraction of the cost. Moreover, a year-long study by Humana indicates medical outcomes with telehealth are just as good as, if not better than, in-person care.
